

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XXXVII.

STANFORD, KY., TUESDAY, MARCH 9, 1909.

NO. 1.

HIGHLAND.

John G. Baugh has sold his farm to a German from Illinois.

Rev. Elbert Young preached at the Methodist church Thursday night.

Adams & Hyatt have added a sawing apparatus to their mill and will be ready to saw lumber this week.

Farmers are making preparations to raise a lot of tobacco, but possibly more winter crops than summer ones.

Mrs. E. B. Bastin, who has been sick for some time, is still very low. Mrs. Burton Spires has been very sick with grip for a month or more.

We regret that J. A. Hollas, who recently sold his farm, is making preparations to move with his family to Oklahoma. We wish them success in their new home.

Elbert E. Young spent a few days with the homefolks last week en route from Louisville, where he had been to attend the Anti-Saloon League Convention. Messrs. Bates and Harlow, traveling men for Louisville and Cincinnati houses, were here last week. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baugh and Miss Minnie Baugh visited the family of Harlan Newell at Ebanks. W. J. Moran and wife spent Sunday with John Young and family. Mart Horton, of New Albany, is here with friends.

Since our last letter there have been a number of changes. G. W. Young and wife, who have kept house for J. S. Young the past year, have moved back to their own property. Mr. Hay, of Turnerville, has moved to John Reid's farm. Tim Hutchison, who has moved some three or four times during the last year, is now back on the place that he left when he went to Arizona. S. S. Bastin has moved into his house built on the land recently purchased of J. S. Young. Hardin Cook has moved to Rev. Mills' farm from the Mari Bryant place. Jim Hollas has moved into one of J. S. Young's houses and will raise a crop of tobacco for Mr. Young, who destroyed an apple orchard for ground to cultivate the weed.

Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs, quickly strengthens the lungs and expels colds. Get the genuine in a yellow package. New Stanford Drug Co.

CUT FLOWERS FOR SALE!

I can furnish the public with the best, as well as the handsomest cut flowers, plants of all kinds, including cut flowers, on short notice. Also make a specialty of wreaths for funeral purposes.

In connection with the above, I have all kinds of vegetables on hand at reasonable prices.

CHRISTMAN GREEN'S HOUSES,
Ed. Richard, Prop.
Stanford, Ky.

T. F. GROSS,

Crab Orchard, Kentucky.

Is now ready to serve his old friends and hopes to make many more. If you have a mate or boy, let him come over and we will make him and have it done right. He makes a specialty of castrating ridgelingens.

PUBLIC SALE!

Having sold my farm, I will offer at public outcry on SATURDAY, MARCH 13, 1909,

the following described property: Nine or 10 horses, some extra good ones; sheep, milk goats, hogs, cattle, etc.; two-horse wagon, buggy, Fricker cart, number of hives of bees and many other things too numerous to mention. Sale will be held at my home, 2½ miles Northwest of Hindostown, beginning at 9:30 A. M. sharp.

J. B. Underwood, Hindostown, Ky.

EXECUTRIX'S SALE!

As executrix of the estate of William Warren, deceased, I will offer

TUESDAY, MARCH 23, 1909, beginning at 10:30 A. M., sell to the highest bidder, at public outcry, on the farm of the late William Warren, deceased, the following personal property, to-wit: Seven Jersey cows, 8 registered short-horn cows, 1 yearling bull, 1 buck, 1 work mule, 1 mule, harness implements, 2 wagons, 1 spring wagon, 1 new carriage, 1 phaeton, 3 double shovel plows, 2 turning plows, 2 cultivators, 1 Disc harrow, 3 spading hoes, 1 corn planter, 1 seed planter, 1 seed box, 1 eating box, corn sheller, 1 seedling box, half barrel of redifer, wagon and plow gear, 25 barrels of excellent corn, household and kitchen furniture and a number of other things.

TERMS.—All purchases of lot and under contract to be paid in 10 years on a credit of six months, with note with approved security, payable to the undersigned and bearing 6 per cent. interest from date until paid.

MRS. WM. WARREN,
Dixville, Ky.

G. R. Cooper, J. B. Owlesley, Jr., and W. M. Burch, Commissioners.

An Allegory.

In a small, obscure village nestling at the foot of the hills, whose chief attractions were its healing waters, which gave life and vigor to those unfortunate of earth afflicted with divers diseases, bloomed a frail human flower. Bereft of parental care at the moment of birth, with no gentle hand to guide, no one to give the nourishment so necessary to its future life, it grew alone. No gentle sunlight, no refreshing showers, with nothing but the rough blazes of life to beat upon its tender leaves and roughly away its fragile stock. No companions came near except to jeer at her imperfections. None offered to stand between her and the cutting blasts, or let a friendly ray of sunshine in. Deserted and despised by her own kindred, neglected and forsaken by her own household, this flower was left entirely alone to her own sad reveries, to do the best she could and keep aloof from more favored flowers.

She had nothing to do but brood over as sad a fate as the little sparrow hatched from the nest, bruised by the sharp stones and unscared for by any human eye. In such a sad hour came one who praised and flattered this poor, weak flower, using honeyed words and praised her symmetry of form, beauty of color and rare qualities. His words fell like sweet nectar upon the drooping, famishing heart of this mountain rose. She had still some one to care for her, some one who did not scorn her defects and in the first glow of her youthful, trusting spirit, was it any wonder she nodded a welcome and in all unconscious hour allowed herself to be so shaken that her pretty head was hung in shame? This lovely rose was robbed of beauty, perfume and even life. But lo, from the withered stem peeps a tiny bud, fresh, joyously, begging a great world to only give it room to bloom; not keep back the sunshine and showers, not to treat it with the cold, cutting acorn its mother felt and fell beneath. Let learn a great lesson from her fall, viz: All the costliest flowers we can heap upon the coffin lid, all the beautiful, eloquent eulogies we can utter over the cold remains will not atone with a merciful Savior for our acts of cruel injustice and neglect of duty. Let us bestow our flowers while the living can enjoy them. Perhaps kind treatment, loving advice and gentle persuasion may nurture some helpless rose, drooping in solitude, cause it to lift its head, enjoy the sunlight and take firmer root for the beautifying of the great kingdom for which it was fashioned. Give the little bud a chance. Atone as much as possible to it for the rude, pitiless treatment its parent received from those claiming to be disciples of the lowly Nazarine and living in the light of a christian dispensation.

Resolutions Passed By The Stanford Ministers.

Whereas the minister is generally condemned by the public for taking a firm stand in civic and political life for what seems to them right, we the undersigned ministers in Stanford, Ky., do hereby set forth what to us seems the correct position and the rules that will govern our conduct in these matters.

1st. That we believe the minister has the same privileges and responsibilities of any other citizen.

2nd. We know that we have the right and it is our privilege and duty to speak at all times concerning matters that make for the peace and well-being of the community.

3rd. That we are determined to do our part to stimulate the public mind to right thinking concerning all moral issues.

4th. That we condemn the whisky traffic and call upon all good citizens to unite with us in banishing this evil from our midst.

5th. That it is not our purpose to speak in behalf of any individual or party except as the well-being of the community is at stake.

THREE acts of the play "Lena Riviera" are laid in the Sunny South at the home of the Livingstones near Frankfort, Ky., one of the most beautiful and typical old mansions of the South. The play is crowded with amusing incidents and has had an overwhelming amount of success. It is said to be the most popular native play descriptive of American humor now before the public. See it at Walton's Opera House Friday night, March 12.

ELSEWHERE will be found the official announcement of Hon. J. Sam Owlesy, Jr., for Circuit Judge. In connection with his candidacy, Mr. Owlesy announces his sympathy with, and support of local option laws, and pledges himself to further its interests should he be elected. The only other candidate so far announced is Judge M. C. Saufley. Mr. Owlesy has served the Thirteenth District twice as Commonwealth's Attorney, and made a most excellent official. At present he is County Judge of Lincoln, and his popularity in all the counties of this district assure him of a tremendous support in his race for Circuit Judge. - Harrodsburg Herald.

TEARING down the court house preparatory to building a new one has left the people of Stanford without a town-clock with its bell to ring in case of a fire. They are greatly missed as some of its citizens do little but count the stroke of the bell as the hours pass by.

In case of fire the INTERIOR JOURNAL suggests that the mayor and chief of police be required to chase themselves over town ringing cow bells. - Frankfort Journal. The editor of the Journal should not make light of I. J.'s suggestion to prevent the town's going up in flames. This paper is not so much interested in its own little holdings but is anxious to keep in tact the Frankfort Journal man's property here, that he may return and spend his declining years in the best town on the map with God's chosen people.

The business element of Richmond has inaugurated a movement to give a Horse Show in the Madison county capital about the middle of July, and if the plans recently mapped out materialize an exhibition will be given for three nights in the big amphitheater at the Madison county fair grounds.

STANFORD COURT.—On account of the severe rain of yesterday few people came to court and business generally was dull. There were hundreds of cattle on the market, but buyer and seller were far apart and not much was done. A number of aged mules changed hands at $125 to $165. The horse market was quiet.

Competitive bids for 600,000 pounds of association tobacco were opened at Hopkinsville Friday and Tandy & Fairleigh were found to be the highest bidders. Their bid was in excess of the price set by the association's graders and it is thought that General Manager Ewing will agree to the sale under the recent agreement made by the recalcitrant farmers of Christian county.

CHURCH MATTERS.

Though the two automobiles purchased for his use have arrived, Mr. Taft walked to church Sunday morning and in the afternoon he rode his newly-bought saddle horse.

The Sunday school of the Christian church is growing rapidly. Every teacher was present Sunday morning and the attendance numbered 210; within four of the largest number ever recorded. The collections amounted to $8.60. The church was crowded Sunday morning when Rev. D. M. Walker preached one of the ablest and best sermons he has given his hearers during his sojourn here.

The Lurid Glow Of Doom was seen in the red face, hands and body of the little son of H. M. Adams, offiarietta, Pa. His awful plight from eczema had, for five years, defied all remedies and baffled the best doctors, who said the poisoned blood had affected his lungs and nothing could save him. "But," writes his mother, "seven boxes of Electric Bitters completely cured him." For eruptions, Eczema, Salt Rheum, Sores and Blood Disorders and Rheumatism Electric Bitters is supreme. Only 50c. Guaranteed by Penny's Drug Store.

William Marshall Bullitt, Robert H. Winn and Judge E. C. O'Rear held a conference in Frankfort, at which it was decided to push Mr. Winn's claims for Judge Cochran's place on the bench should the Kentucky judge succeed Judge Richards.
